There were 3 Cassen (Cason) listed as permanent settlers at Jamestown in 1607. George, Thomas and William. I have seen the IGI site at Family Search and someone has George listed as the father of Thomas Sr. born 1604 in London then Thomas Jr. and on down to John father of Edward. I would like to know who sent the information in and what are the documented facts to support this lineage. George was born in 1580 in Ireland then to London and off to Jamestown where he was tortured and killed by the Indians in 1635. I would like to hear from anyone with information on this interesting issue. My line goes back as far as John Cason father of Edward who married Joanna Butcher abt 1727 in VA.

"December 1607: Rebellion at Jamestown, colonists under George Kendall conspired to overthrow the council. Kendall was discovered and shot.

December 10, 1607: Smith leads expedition up the Chickahominy River in search of food. Smith captured by Opechancanough of the Powhatan Indians. A second member of the expedition is captured. George Cason, he is tortured by the Indians, his fingers and toes are cut off flaying him from his scalp downward before setting him afire."

He was a successful tobacco planter and slave owner. In the lower Norfolk Book of Representative Citizens in the 1639-1640 period, Thomas Cason (Cawson) had to benefit the county certain monies because he married the widow of a man (William Layton) who owed the county money. He is listed again in the Warwick County, VA records in 1647 as a church warden of Lynnhaven Parish in 1645. He died in Norfolk, Princess Anne County, VA in 1651.

CHRONICLES OF CYNTHIANA.

Thomas Cason, the great-grandfather of Mrs. Oteria Day Frisbie, was born in Spotsylvania county, VA. He was a man of unusual strength of character, and possessed a fine mind. He married Nancy Day. Their children were Jack, Estus, Lucinda, Eliza, John, and Nelson. Thomas Cason died and his widow came to Kentucky in 1836, and brought a large number of slaves, and settled where her grandson, Lewis Day, once judge of the county court of Harrison county, Kentucky, where he lived and died. The maternal grandfather of Mrs. Frisbie-Cason married the widow Green. The ancestors of Judge Lewis Day on his father's side came from Spotsylvania county, VA, in the beginning of civilization in this part of Kentucky. One of their descendants says that they made a great mistake in not settling in the "Blue Grass" region, near where Lexington now stands. They camped one night, while on their journey to this part of Kentucky, on Elkhorn creek, But they did not like the appearance of the land-it was too level, and the soil looked too black, and as they had never seen such land, they left it and came to what was afterward Harrison county, and purchased a large tract of land in the locality of John S. Day's farm. Having many slaves, they cultivated their lands on an extensive scale. They also owned a distillery, and made copper-distilled whisky, which old people claim did not make people "crazy drunk," like the present spiritus frumenti. Andrew Moore married an aunt of Mrs. Frisbie, Candice, by name. The fame of her beauty lives to this day. Andrew Moore was clerk of the circuit court of this county. He was a kinsman of H. Coleman Moore, who left a fund at his death to be used in the education of destitute orphans. A handsome cenotaph has been placed in "Battle Grove Cemetery" to the memory of H. C. Moore, which will lie in ruins long before the benefactor to whom it was reared will be forgotten.
